

Seizing opportunities – Leading women to headship and beyond

Mulberry School for Girls is one of a number of organizations proud to support the Leading Women's Alliance, which seeks to encourage and empower more women to take up headship and executive leadership positions.

The Leading Women's Alliance's second summit on 20 January 2017, hosted by Mulberry School for Girls, will feature renowned speakers on women's leadership – including Dr Vanessa Ogden, Head of Mulberry School for Girls and CEO of the Mulberry Schools Trust – and aims to:

- Equip and inspire women to seize opportunities presented by the changing leadership landscape
- Explore values-led leadership – essential in influencing our local communities at this time
- Review the Leading Women to Headship Strategic Plan, including The Pledge, and to commit to action

A full programme for the day is available here and you can sign up on Eventbrite. There is an early-bird discount price for people signing up before the end of November.